Summary

AvalonBay is well-positioned to gain from healthy renter demand for its residential properties in the high barrier-to-entry regions of the United States, as favorable demographic trends and rising home ownership costs are likely to keep driving demand. Moreover, the company's efforts to leverage technology and scale to drive margin expansion and operational efficiency seem encouraging. Strategic buyouts and development projects augur well for long-term growth. A healthy balance sheet position aids financial flexibility. We expect 2025 total revenues to grow 4.8% year over year. However, an elevated supply of rental units in some markets is likely to fuel competition and curb pricing power, impeding the rent growth momentum. High interest expenses add to its woes. We estimate 2025 interest expenses to increase 10.4% year over year.

Overview

AvalonBay Communities, Inc. is a real estate investment trust (REIT) focusing on developing, redeveloping, acquiring, owning and operating of multi-family apartment communities for higher-income clients in high barrier-to-entry regions of the United States, which generally command the highest rents in the markets. It is an S&P 500 Index member.

These markets include New England, the New York/New Jersey metro area, Mid-Atlantic, Pacific Northwest, and Northern and Southern California. The company is also tracking opportunities in the newly expanded markets of Raleigh-Durham and Charlotte, NC; Southeast Florida; Dallas and Austin, TX, and Denver, CO.

The company focuses on metropolitan areas historically experiencing rising employment in high-wage sectors of the economy, along with high home ownership costs and a vibrant quality of life. The company has a principal executive office in Arlington, VA, and a number of regional offices, administrative offices or specialty offices in its markets.

As of June 30, 2025, AvalonBay owned or held direct or indirect ownership stakes in 315 apartment communities, which included 97,212 apartment homes in 11 states and the District of Columbia.

As of June 30, 2025, out of the total owned communities, AvalonBay had 20 wholly owned communities under construction, comprising around 7,299 apartment homes and 69,000 square feet of commercial space. The estimated total capital cost at completion is $2.78 billion.

AvalonBay is actively restructuring its portfolio with the acquisition of value-accretive investments and the disposition of non-core assets. In the second quarter of 2025, AvalonBay acquired six wholly owned communities worth $431.5 million with 1,844 apartment units in the Dallas-Fort Worth metropolitan area. During the same period, AvalonBay disposed of two wholly owned communities with 406 apartment units for $161.5 million.

Note: All EPS numbers presented in this report represent funds from operations (FFO) per share. FFO, a widely used metric to gauge the performance of REITs, is obtained after adding depreciation and amortization and other non-cash expenses to net income.

Reasons To Buy:

- ▲ AvalonBay has high-quality assets located in some of the premium markets of the country, which enable the company to generate steady rental revenues. It mainly focuses on adding properties in the leading metropolitan areas where the market is characterized by growing employment in high-wage sectors of the economy, higher homeownership costs and diverse and vibrant quality of life. This offers AvalonBay an edge for generating superior long-term risk-adjusted returns on apartment community investments over the other markets that lack such characteristics. Moreover, limited single-family home inventory is making the transition from renter to homeowner difficult in its markets and renting apartment units is a viable option. Its portfolio is well diversified with its same-store portfolio, comprising a decent number of both suburban and urban assets. It is also making concerted efforts to expand its portfolio in the suburban markets. Hence, with these factors in place, AvalonBay remains well-positioned for growth. In 2025, management expects same-store residential revenues to grow between 2.3% and 3.3% year over year. We expect year-over-year growth of 3% in the company's same-store revenues in 2025.
- ▲ Demographic growth also continues to be strong in the young-adult age cohort, which has a higher propensity to rent. People in the age bracket of 20-34 are the main cohort for the formation of new households and a majority of them prefer to remain renters and enjoy the locational advantages and flexibility that rental apartments offer.
- ▲ To enhance its overall portfolio quality, AvalonBay has carried out several strategic acquisitions over the years. It is also disposing of non-core assets for capital recycling. In the first half of 2025, the company acquired eight communities consisting of 2,701 apartment units for a total consideration amount of $618.5 million. AvalonBay expects its current 76% suburban submarket allocation to achieve the 80% target, while the current 13% expansion region allocation to reach a target of 25%. In the first half of 2025, AvalonBay disposed of three wholly owned communities consisting of 508 apartment units for $226.6 million. Such efforts are likely to ease the burden on its balance sheet and bolster the company's external growth in the upcoming period.
- ▲ AvalonBay's growth over the intermediate term is likely to be further supported by the increased development deliveries. In the second quarter of 2025, the company began developing two communities with around 624 apartment units and an estimated capital cost at completion of $210 million. In 2025, management is planning development starts of around $1.7 billion. In the next few years, the developments underway are expected to deliver meaningful incremental net operating income (NOI) upon completion and stabilization and are expected to fuel FFO and net asset value growth. We estimate 2025 same-store NOI to increase 3% year over year.
- ▲ AvalonBay is leveraging technology, scale and organizational capabilities to drive margin expansion in its portfolio. It is focusing on self-serve digital experiences to provide a seamless, personalized customer experience. Such efforts are likely to bring about operational efficiency and reduce costs, aiding NOI growth. With innovative efforts and transformative moves, the company has delivered $39 million in annual incremental NOI through year-end 2024.
- ▲ In April 2022, AvalonBay launched an investment vehicle called the Structured Investment Program, or SIP. It is a mezzanine lending platform providing short-term construction financing to local third-party developers in the company's established regions and even Denver and Florida. The SIP enables the company to take advantage of its expertise in development, construction and operations to generate high-risk-adjusted returns for its shareholders and aid earnings growth. As of June 30, 2025, AvalonBay had eight commitments to fund either mezzanine loans or preferred equity investments of up to $211.6 million in total under the SIP. As of the same date, it had funded around $202.2 million of these commitments.
- ▲ AvalonBay has a healthy balance sheet with ample liquidity, positioning it well to capitalize on long-term growth opportunities. As of June 30, 2025, the company had $102.8 million in unrestricted cash and cash equivalents. As of the same date, AvalonBay did not have any borrowings outstanding under its $2.25 billion unsecured credit facility. The company has a well-laddered debt maturity schedule with a weighted average year-to-maturity of 6.8 years. In the second quarter of 2025, its annualized net debt-to-core EBITDAre was 4.4 times and unencumbered NOI was 95%, providing scope for tapping additional secured debt capital if required. Moreover, balance sheet flexibility is preserved for future opportunities, with around 103% match-funded on current development underway in the second quarter of 2025. The investment-grade credit ratings of 'A3' from Moody's and 'A-' from S&P render it access to the debt market at favorable costs.
- ▲ Solid dividend payouts are arguably the biggest enticement for REIT investors, and AvalonBay has consistently paid dividends each year since it went public in 1994. In February 2025, concurrent with its fourth-quarter earnings release, AvalonBay increased its first-quarter 2025 dividend to $1.75 per share from $1.70 paid in the prior quarter. This represented a hike of 2.9% from the prior payout. Moreover, backed by healthy operating fundamentals, we expect core FFO to increase by 3.5% year over year in 2025 and 4.9% in 2026. Hence, with a solid financial position and our FFO growth projections, we expect the dividend rate to be sustainable in the coming years..

AvalonBay is poised to benefit from high quality assets in premium markets and portfolio diversification. It has a healthy balance sheet and is leveraging technology and scale to drive margins.

Reasons To Sell:

- ▼ The struggle to lure renters is likely to persist, as supply volume remains elevated in a few markets where the company operates. Moreover, the company is witnessing delays in its development deliveries, resulting in lower occupancy and higher concessions in markets like Denver and Maryland, in particular, pushing its NOI down.
- ▼ AvalonBay faces competition from other housing alternatives, such as rental apartments, condominiums and single-family homes. Such a competitive landscape limits the company's ability to increase rent, restricting its growth momentum to a certain extent.
- ▼ Despite the Federal Reserve announcing rate cuts late in 2024, the interest rate is still high and is a concern for AvalonBay. The company may find it difficult to purchase or develop real estate with borrowed funds, as the costs are likely to be on the higher side. AvalonBay has a substantial debt burden, and its total debt was approximately $8.71 billion as of June 30, 2025. Interest expenses increased 13.5% year over year to $64.8 million in the second quarter of 2025. For 2025, interest expenses are expected to rise 10.4% year over year.

High rental unit supply, development delays and competition from peers raise concerns for AvalonBay. High interest expenses add to the company's woes.

AvalonBay Q2 FFO Beats Estimates, Same-Store Residential NOI Rises

AvalonBay reported a second-quarter 2025 core FFO per share of $2.82, beating the Zacks Consensus Estimate of $2.80. The figure also climbed 1.8% from the prior-year quarter's tally.

The quarterly performance reflected favorable same-store residential revenue and operating expense performance. AvalonBay has revised its full-year 2025 outlook, reflecting higher same-store NOI, offset by the delayed occupancies' impact on development NOI.

Total revenues in the quarter came in at $760.2 million, narrowly missing the Zacks Consensus Estimate by 0.2%. However, the figure increased 4.7% on a year-over-year basis.

Quarter in Detail

In the reported quarter, same-store residential revenues increased 3% year over year to $689.1 million. Same-store residential operating expenses rose 3.6% to $211.9 million. As a result, the same-store residential NOI climbed 2.7% to $477.18 million.

Same-store average revenue per occupied home rose to $3,056 in the second quarter, up 2.8% from $2,974 in the year-ago period. Same-store economic occupancy of 96.2% improved 20 basis points (bps) year over year. It is also ahead of our estimate of 96.1%.

However, interest expenses increased 13.5% year over year to $64.8 million. It also exceeded our estimate of $63.0 million.

Portfolio Activity

During the second quarter, the company acquired six communities in the Dallas-Fort Worth metropolitan area, containing 1,844 apartment homes, for a stated purchase price of $431.5 million.

During the reported quarter, AvalonBay sold Avalon Wesmont Station I & II, two wholly-owned communities with 406 apartment homes and 18,000 square feet of commercial space, in Wood-Ridge, NJ, for $161.5 million, resulting in a gain in accordance with GAAP of $99.6 million.

As of June 30, 2025, AvalonBay had 20 wholly owned development communities under construction (expected to contain 7,299 apartment homes and 69,000 square feet of commercial space). The estimated total capital cost of these development communities at completion is $2.78 billion.

Balance Sheet

AvalonBay had $102.8 million in unrestricted cash and cash equivalents as of June 30, 2025. As of the same date, the company did not have any borrowings outstanding under its credit facility. It had outstanding borrowings of $664.6 million under its unsecured commercial paper note program.

Additionally, its annualized net debt-to-core EBITDAre for the April-June period was 4.4 times, and the unencumbered NOI for the six months ended June 30, 2025, was 95%.

2025 Guidance

For full-year 2025, AvalonBay has revised its core FFO per share in the range of $11.19-$11.59 compared with the initial outlook of $11.14-$11.64. This denotes a projected core FFO per share growth of 3.5% at the midpoint, unchanged from the initial outlook.

AvalonBay expects same-store residential revenue growth of 2.8% at the midpoint of the outlook range, down from 3% guided earlier. Same-store operating expenses are expected to grow 3.1%, down from 4.1% projected earlier. Consequently, same-store residential NOI is projected to expand 2.7%, up from 2.4% initially guided. 2025 NOI from development communities is projected to be $25 million, down from the prior outlook of $30 million.

For the third quarter of 2025, AvalonBay expects core FFO per share in the range of $2.75-$2.85.

AvalonBay Reports Same-Store NOI Growth Ahead of Expectations – Sept. 03, 2025

In a major boost to investors' sentiment, AvalonBay provided an update highlighting same-store residential NOI growth ahead of expectations year to date as of June 30, 2025, at 2.6%.

The residential REIT emphasized that its same-store revenue growth for July and August is in line with the guidance updated in the second-quarter earnings release as of July 31, 2025. The growth in same-store revenues for the months under consideration includes actual results for July and management's expectations for August, as per data on Sept. 3, 2025.

AvalonBay iterated that its transaction activity reflects an increase in its suburban and expansion regions, fulfilling its portfolio allocation objectives. The submarket allocation now comprises 76% suburban mix, up from 73% as per the second-quarter 2025 mid-quarter update. Similarly, the regional allocation to expansion regions has inched up to 13% from 12% initially.

The above update reflects improving demand, aiding same-store revenue growth for the company. It also focuses on AvalonBay's portfolio diversification efforts to withstand any challenge in turbulent times.

Dividend Update

On Sept. 17, 2025, AvalonBay declared its third-quarter 2025 dividend of $1.75 per share. The dividend was paid out on Oct. 15 to shareholders on record as of Sept. 30, 2025.

Valuation

AvalonBay's shares have declined 19.1% over the trailing 12-month period. While stocks in the Zacks sub-industry have decreased 13.6%, those in the Zacks Finance sector have increased 15.3% over the same period.

The S&P 500 Index is up 20.3% over the trailing 12-month period.

The stock is currently trading at 15.54X forward 12-month FFO, which compares with 14.83X for the Zacks sub-industry, 17.22X for the Zacks sector and 23.99X for the S&P 500 Index.

Over the past five years, the stock has traded as high as 30.97X and as low as 14.69X, with a five-year median of 18.38X. Our Neutral recommendation indicates that the stock will perform in line with the market. Our $193.00 price target reflects 16.29X FFO.

Zacks Stock Rating System

We offer two rating systems that take into account investors' holding horizons: Zacks Rank and Zacks Recommendation. Each provides valuable insights into the future profitability of the stock and can be used separately or in combination with each other depending on your investment style.

Zacks Recommendation

The Zacks Recommendation aims to predict performance over the next 6 to 12 months. The foundation for the quantitatively determined Zacks Recommendation is trends in the company's estimate revisions and earnings outlook. The Zacks Recommendation is broken down into 3 Levels; Outperform, Neutral and Underperform. Unlike many Wall Street firms, we have an excellent balance between the number of Outperform and Neutral recommendations. Our team of 70 analysts are fully versed in the benefits of earnings estimate revisions and how that is harnessed through the Zacks quantitative rating system. But we have given our analysts the ability to override the Zacks Recommendation for the 1200 stocks that they follow. The reason for the analyst over-rides is that there are often factors such as valuation, industry conditions and management effectiveness that a trained investment professional can spot better than a quantitative model.

Zacks Rank

The Zacks Rank is our short-term rating system that is most effective over the one- to three-month holding horizon. The underlying driver for the quantitatively-determined Zacks Rank is the same as the Zacks Recommendation, and reflects trends in earnings estimate revisions.

Zacks Style Scores

The Zacks Style Score is as a complementary indicator to the Zacks rating system, giving investors a way to focus on the highest rated stocks that best fit their own stock picking preferences.

Academic research has proven that stocks with the best Value, Growth and Momentum characteristics outperform the market. The Zacks Style Scores rate stocks on each of these individual styles and assigns a rating of A, B, C, D and F. We also produce the VGM Score (V for Value, G for Growth and M for Momentum), which combines the weighted average of the individual Style Scores into one score. This is perfectly suited for those who want their stocks to have the best scores across the board.

Value Score	D
Growth Score	D
Momentum Score	A
VGM Score	D

As an investor, you want to buy stocks with the highest probability of success. That means buying stocks with a Zacks Recommendation of Outperform, which also has a Style Score of an A or a B.
